THOMAS CORBETT, Administrator.

Will be EXHIBITED,

At Mr. PIKE's Long-Room (for the better Accommodation of the LADIES and GENTLEMEN)

A VARIETY of PERFORMANCES on the SLACK WIRE; also, a great Variety on the SLACK ROPE.

By the celebrated Mr. JOHNSTON,

Just arrived from England, well known there for his Abilities on the same.

He proposes to perform on MONDAY next, being the Eighth Instant, and on FRIDAY following.

He balances, turns, and swings on the Slack Wire to Admiration.—He balances a French Horn on the Wire, and plays a Tune upon it at the same Time;—also a Small Sword on the Edge of a Wine Glass, with a Pewter Plate on the Hilt, and make it spin round like a Top.—He beats the Side Drum in full Swing on the Wire.—He balances a Straw on his Nose, and beats the Drum at the same Time on the Wire.—He will lay down on his Back upon the Wire, balance a Straw upon his Nose, and rise up with the same.—Also walks backward and forward on the Wire in full Swing.

Likewise balances his Hat upon his Nose, and dexterously catches the same on his Head upon the Wire.—He walks blindfolded on the Wire.—He balances a Pyramid of Glasses on his Knee upon the Wire.—He stands on the Ground and balances a Peacock's Feather on one Foot, tosses it to the other, and from thence to his Face, then to different Parts of his Body, and to his Face again.——Any Person that chuses, may blow a Peacock's Feather through a Cane, and he will catch the same in Balance upon his Face. With a great many others, to tedious to mention.

He exhibits on the slack Rope in a Manner so peculiar, that he has challenged any Person in Europe to exceed them.——A Detail of his different Feats on the same, would be too long for an Advertisement.

TICKETS, one Dollar the Stage, and Twenty Shillings the Gallery, to be had at the Coffee-House, Mrs. Swallow's, Mr. Morelli's, and at the Place of Performance.

N. B. To prevent confusion at the Door, no Person can be admitted without a Ticket.

JOSEPH WOOD.

MONDAY last, being the Anniversary of our most gracious Sovereign's Accession to the Throne, when His Majesty's entered into the fourteenth Year of his Reign, the same was observed here NOT as usual, but celebrated in a very uncommon and distinguished Manner, by the CHARLES-TOWN ARTILLERY COMPANY. That truly useful and respectable Corps were, upon this Occasion, drawn up under Arms, in the Morning, before the State-House; from thence they proceeded to the Parade, with their Field Pieces, where they were reviewed by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, and performed the several Parts of their Exercise, and the various Firings with their Field-Pieces, with a Regularity and Dexterity equally astonishing and pleasing to the numerous Spectators. After this, the whole Body partook of an Entertainment, provided by its Officers, at Mrs. Swallow's in Broad-Street, which for its Elegance, and the Number of distinguished Gentlemen that were present, was never surpassed, by any Birth-Day Dinner given in this Province, by His Majesty's Representatives, the Company invited thereto being, His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, the Members of His Majesty's Honourable Council, all the Public Officers, civil and military, the Clergy, &c. &c. &c. most of whom honoured the Corps with their Presence. Many loyal Toasts were also drank after Dinner, succeeded by Discharges from the Field-Pieces.—The present Officers of the Company are, Capt. Owen Roberts, (at present abroad) Capt. Lieut. Barnard Beekman; 1st and 2d Lieutenants, Hon. Barnard Elliott, and Thomas Grimball, Esquire; Lieutenant-Fireworkers, Benjamin Huger, Thomas Heyward, and Edward Rutledge, Esquires.

At the last Assizes, begun and holden here on Tuesday the 19th past, the following Persons were convicted, upon whom Sentence was passed on Thursday the 28th, as inentioned after their respective Names, viz.

William Willis, alias Pleasant Hicks, alias Thomas Willis, alias Thomas Moore, of stealing a Negro—to be hanged on Friday the 12th Instant.

Levi Sparkman—of Horse-stealing, and Felony, on two Indictments—to be also hanged on Friday the 12th Instant.

Ann Merchant—of Manslaughter—was burnt in the Hand.

Jacob Ramos (a Jew)—of receiving a Sum of Money, of which Mr. William Somersall was some Time since robbed, by a Negro, who was convicted of and hanged for the Robbery, and who, to his last Moments, persisted in accusing Ramos, of having excited him to commit the said Robbery, and of receiving all the Money (a considerable Sum) from him.—His Sentence was, to stand in the Pillory on Friday last from 12 o'Clock to 1, to receive 39 Lashes on Friday next the 5th Instant, at the four usual Corners, which will be between the Hours of 11 and 12, and to pay a Fine of Three Hundred and Fifty Pounds.—The first Part of his Sentence was executed last Friday, and he was most severely and incessantly pelted by an enraged Populace, who nevertheless were so orderly, as not to use any other Materials that rotten Eggs, Apples, and Onions.

William French, convicted of Horse-stealing,—had his right Ear cut off, and received 39 Lashes last Friday.

Robert Smith, John Taylor, Jacob Mathews, } convicted of Petit-Larceny, each received Thirty-nine Lashes at the usual Corners last Friday.

John Lewis—for Perjury,—was sentenced to stand one Hour in the Pillory on Friday last (which Part of his Punishment His Honour the Lieutenant Governor was pleased to remit) again on the last Fridays in January and February next, and to suffer three Months Imprisonment:—and for a Contempt of the Court, which this unhappy and very young Man was guilty of (from Liquor having been given to him with too great Freedom) he was fined in Sixty-nine Pounds Currency, sentenced to suffer two Months farther Imprisonment, and to be brought on the first Day of the next Sessions, with a Label on his Breast, setting forth the Nature of his Crime, exposed in a Cart, from the Common-Jail to the State-House, there on his Knees, in the Dock, to ask Pardon of the Court, for his Offence.

The Quantity of RICE exported from hence, betwixt the 1st of November last Year, and this Day, is about 120,500 Tierces. An exact Account has not yet been taken, but our Readers shall have that in our next.

Lieutenant Mattier and Ensign Hallwood of His Majesty's 14th Regiment, did not die at St. Augustine, as was mentioned in our last. The Company to which they were Officers, was stationed at New-Providence, and they died there of a malignant Fever.

"Died October 20th, in the Bloom of Life at James-Island, "after a tedious Illness, Mrs. Mary Wilson, a Lady who, to "all the natural Advantages of Person, had joined those Vir-"tues of the Mind, that entitled her to the warmest Affection "and Esteem of her Husband and Friends whilst living, and "will cause them long to regret her Loss."

Last Wednesday returned here from New-York, in the Brigt. Betsy, Capt. Schermerhorn, William Maxwell, Esq; Mr. Jeremiah Brower, Mr. Richard Mercer, and Capt. Benjamin Barton. A great Number of other Passengers came in said Vessel.

On Thursday last another Ship (the Ann, Capt. Miller) from Ireland, arrived here, with about 250 Passengers, to settle in this Province.

Last Friday arrived here, with its Tender, His Majesty's Ship Glasgow, commanded by Capt. Maltby, appointed to this Station in the Room of His Majesty's Frigate Lizard, which has fallen down to Rebellion-Road, in order to proceed for England with the first fair Wind.

Since our last, died, Mr. John Drayton, youngest Son of the late Thomas Drayton, Esq.

A Word of Advice to ATTICUS, cannot yet be inserted.

CHRISTOPHER GADSDEN,

Gives Notice to his Friends in the Country,

THAT he is ready to serve them as FACTOR, upon the usual Terms, and will be much obliged to them for their Friendship.—They may depend on his exerting himself to the utmost for their Interest.—He has great Plenty of Stores, and such Gentlemen whom it may not suit to employ him in that Capacity, yet if they will order their Crops to be landed on his Wharf, may depend that their Factors, be they who they may, shall not be obliged to sell the same, or any Part thereof, contrary to their Judgment, for Want of Storage, as is frequently the Case.

N. B. He will be much obliged to Gentlemen whose Wharf Accounts have been delivered in, to discharge them as soon as possible. October 9, 1773.

N. B. The Residents in and about GEORGE-TOWN, may depend on a large and regular Supply of Goods being kept up:—They are determined also, to sell on as REASONABLE TERMS as in Charles-Town—and Payments will be made as easy as possible.

MR. DE ST. PIERRE, having met with repeated and great Disappointments, in his Attempt to introduce the MAKING of WINES at New-Bourdeaux, in the Back Parts of this Province, so as to render the same a considerable Branch of its Trade, merely by a Failure of that Support which he had Reason to expect, from some of the Persons on whom he most relied, to advance the necessary Sums, to carry him through, and complete, this important Undertaking.

Having, nevertheless, under that, and many other Discouragements and Difficulties, stedfastly persevered in his zealous Endeavours to accomplish this great End, so far as, that he has introduced large Quantities of the best FOREIGN VINES that could be procured, as well from Europe as from other Places, and now hath four Acres, or thereabouts, of two Years Growth, in the highest Perfection, of which an excellent Wine may be next Year made, of a Quality between the Burgundy and Claret.

But, finding himself in no Condition to proceed, to attain this desirable Object (although there is no Abatement of his Zeal and Attention) for Want of Cellars, Presses, and four able young Negroes, or rather of the Means to procure them; he finds himself reduced to the unhappy Necessity of soliciting the Assistance of Gentlemen of Public Spirit, and who wish to see such an Undertaking succeed, by a Subscription Loan of so small a Sum as £. 2000 Currency, to be laid out in the following Manner, viz.—About £. 1600l. in the Purchase of four Slaves, to be severally instructed and employed in the proper Management of the Wines, so as to enlarge the Vineyard;—without whose Assistance, that of four Acres, abovementioned, cannot be extended. The remaining £. 400 to be put into Mr. DE. ST. PIERRE's Hands, to provide himself with Presses, and to build a Cellar, absolutely necessary for preserving the Wine, which will be quite different in its Nature from that made nearer the Topick, as at Madera and the Canaries.

If there should be found Gentlemen who will advance the Sum now wanted, which he flatters himself there will, he proposes that the Money so subscribed, shall be paid into the Hands of a Committee chosen from among the Subscribers, who shall lay out and take the proper Measures, to secure the same to the said Subscribers.

Besides the Vineyard under his immediate Care, there are already several other flourishing Vineyards at New Bourdeaux, under experienced Vignerons; and he expects to receive 50 or 60,000 Plants more, from Europe, this Year; for the Management of which particularly, he shall want the Negroes.

To conclude, upon the Reception this PROPOSAL meets with, greatly depends, whether this shall immediately become a WINE COUNTRY, or not.

 Subscription-Papers are lodged in the Hands of Mr. JOHN CORAM, Merchant, and at Mr. WELLS, Mr. CROUCH, and T. POWELL & Company's Printing-Offices, in Charles-Town;—where Gentlemen, disposed to assist Mr. DE ST. PIERRE, will please to give in their Names, and the Sums they are willing to advance, as soon as possible, it being of the utmost Consequence to him, that the Application of the Subscription-Money be made by the 1st Day of December next.—In which Case, his Vineyard may be enlarged next Year from Four to near Fifty Acres.

On the Management of Children in Infancy.

INFANTS generally paſs the firſt year of life in an indolent ſtate, wholly inattentive to every thing, but the calls of hunger, which they expreſs by their cries. This tendency to ſleep is of the moſt eſſential ſervice to them, as it effectually ſecures them from the numerous injuries to which they would be expoſed in a ſtate of greater vivacity. Nor is this the only advantage they derive from it; the amazing rapidity of their growth, at this period, evinces, that by it nature is left at full liberty to finiſh her work, and to complete the imperfect organization of the body.

In the ſecond year, their eyes begin to ſparkle with ſenſibility, and you no longer obſerve in them that ſtupid ſtare, which heretofore diſtinguiſhed them. They become now attentive to every thing; and no ſooner are their limbs grown capable of exertion, than they diſcover a propenſity to make a trial of them. At this age they begin to imitate ſounds; and, parents to humour them, are apt to utter an unintelligible jargon, which the children retain long, and give up with difficulty.

In the third year, children, from an imitation of words, proceed to an intimation of actions. Having ſeen a perſon on horſeback, they will place a ſtick between their legs, and will gallop about the room. They ſee men employed in erecting an edifice; they come home, and with infinite labour conſtruct a building of cards. In many things this imitative genius is perfectly innocent; but in others it is not ſo, and ought then to be checked.

In the fourth year, children become extremely impatient of controul; their imaginations are lively; their ideas paſs on in a quick ſucceſſion. If their wiſhes are not gratified as ſoon as they are formed, they feel the moſt exquiſite pain from a diſappointment, to which they are yet unaccuſtomed; and they labour not to ſuppreſs the emotions of the ſoul, being as yet wholly unpractiſed in diſguiſe. It is of the utmoſt importance that parents do not form unjuſt ſuſpicions concerning this impatience in their children, as they certainly will do, if they conſider it as an indication of the imperious, obſtinate, and unruly mind. Your little ones will have their grievances as well as thoſe who are grown up, and to them, be they as trifling as they will, they are as important as greater. As they bear theſe, they will bear others in the future part of life, for habit will then preſcribe to them; and how they ſhall bear theſe is entirely in your power. This then is the age at which parental authority is to be eſtabliſhed, and at which children ſhould be taught to pay an implicit obedience to every command. Not that you ſhould exact too much of them, nor any thing too rigorouſly. Their obedience ſhould be that of a ſubject, and not that of a ſlave. The celebrated Roſſeau, in his Emilius, ſpeaks very ſenſibly on this ſubject: 'Let the child, ſays he, early feel on his aſpiring creſt the hard yoke nature has impoſed on man, the heavy yoke of neceſſity, under which finite beings muſt bow. As to doing thoſe things from which he ought to abſtain, forbid him not, but prevent him without explanation or argument: Whatever you indulge him in, grant it to his firſt requeſt, without ſolicitation or entreaty, and particularly without making any conditions. Grant with pleaſure, and refuſe with reluctance; but I ſay again, let all your denials be irrevocable; let no importunity overcome your reſolution; let the No, once pronounced, be as a brazen wall, againſt which, when a child hath ſome few times exhauſted his ſtrength, without making any impreſſion, he will never attempt to overthrow it again." How oppoſite to the common practice is the conduct here recommended! Inſtead of being obeyed, parents, in general, chuſe to obey their children, while they continue in the ſtate of infancy, and make their capricious will a law.

In the fifth year, children begin to be inquiſitive, and are particularly deſirous of having the injunctions of a parent explained to them. When ſuch an explanation can be given with propriety, it ſhould never be refuſed. For it is of the utmoſt importance, that children ſhould be fully ſatisfied, that the commands of a parent are not the dictates of a gloomy, moroſe, and ſevere diſpoſition, but the effects of mature deliberation; and that nothing is conſulted in them but their welfare and happineſs. At the firſt eſtabliſhment of parental authority, children ſhould be taught to pay an implicit obedience to the will of a parent, becauſe they are then incapable of knowing what is, or what is not conducive to their immediate preſervation. But, when they are able to comprehend the motives which induce a parent to enjoin obedience to his commands, we are clearly of opinion, that they ought to be explained: For, by this means, they, who were before reſpected, will be now beloved. And it is well known, that authority, built on fear, is built upon a weak foundation, that may be ſhaken by innumerable accidents; but built upon love, it becomes, indiſſolubly firm.

In tracing the firſt developments of the human mind, it is obvious to remark a ſingular genius for imitation. This imitative genius is the vehicle in which inſtruction ſhould be conveyed. Children are more minute obſervers of actions than it is generally imagined; and to this circumſtance I impute a great deal of that rudeneſs which is obſervable in their behaviour. They are too much accuſtomed to the converſation of ſervants; and, when parents have only their own children for the witneſſes of their actions, they are too apt to conſider them as cyphers, and to throw aſide all ceremony before them. But, as children now diſcover a ſurprizing quickneſs of perception, too great a latitude of behaviour ought not to be taken in their preſence.

In the ſixth year, it is uſual for children to teſtify a ſtrong ambition to be thought men and women: and the greateſt care ſhould be taken, that the habits they now acquire be ſuch as may prove beneficial to them.

In the ſeventh year, let children be taught to read and ſpeak the Engliſh language with propriety. For the former purpoſe ſeveral alphabets of ivory letters may be procured, which, by being placed on a dark mahogany table, would impreſs on the infant mind an accurate idea of their ſeveral forms, and would have one great advantage over written or printed letters, which is, that they would, at the ſame time, be ſenſible both to the ſight and touch. Theſe letters ſhould be ranged in exact order, in a long and narrow box, with a diviſion for every letter. Each [illegible] diviſions ſhould be marked on the front with the letters [illegible] and there ſhould be in each a partition by [illegible] Roman letters may be kept ſeparate. This [illegible] he appearance of a toy than of an [illegible] circumſtance, and from [illegible] any [illegible] and conclude, that it would be uſed with great pleaſure and more ſucceſs in teaching children to read, than any book that was ever written with that view. From the collection of ivory letters, let the child be taught to ſelect ſuch as form theſe words which occur moſt frequently in converſation. From words let him proceed to ſentences; and from ſentences to The Lord's Prayer, The Belief, and the Ten Commandments: And all theſe things ought to be explained to him in the plaineſt and moſt intelligible manner. When a child has been ſo much accuſtomed to theſe things, as to be able to copy them with tolerable expedition, he will have arrived, as it were inſenſibly, at the art of reading. Then it is, and not till then, that a book can be made uſe of with propriety.

In the eighth year, the buſineſs of the child ſhould be to acquire the art of writing; than which nothing can ſucceed more naturally, or with greater propriety to the art of reading.—— Such are the regulations and directions, which we would propoſe for the management of children during infancy.
